

“Show your children, where you work” – initiative for parents working in Millennium Plaza

Monday, 15 September, 2014

For the end of the summer Atlas Estates organized in its Millennium Plaza office building a special all-day event for children, named “Show your child where you work”. As a result, the employees of the companies renting space in the building could offer their children a day full of attractions as well as an opportunity for them to visit their parent’s workplace. The event, which was attended by approx. 70 children, met with a positive response of children, parents and their employers.
